DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Invention I in the reply filed on November 13, 2006 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that all of the claims of this application can be examined at the same time without serious burden. This is not found persuasive because Invention I and Invention II are distinct from one another.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 6, 13, 14, 16-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Inamura, et al.(JP10229635A).

Inamura teaches a motor condition detection apparatus for detecting a locking condition of the motor comprising first voltage detection means; second voltage detection means; voltage difference calculation means for calculating voltage difference between the motor driving voltage and the voltage of the control device; and first motor locking determination means for determining the locking condition of the motor based on the voltage difference during driving of the motor and the first motor locking determination means determining that the motor is locked when the voltage difference is higher than a predetermined voltage (see abstract). The first motor locking determination means determines that the motor is locked when the condition in which the voltage difference is higher than the predetermined voltage continues for a predetermined period. Inamura teaches a motor driving stopping means; a regenerative voltage detection means; and motor locking determination means for determining the locking condition of the motor based on the regenerative voltage of the motor. The motor driving stopping means stops driving the motor when the voltage difference is higher than a predetermined voltage. With regards to claims 16 and 17, Inamura inherently discloses the method by use of described structure.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 10-12 and 21-22 are allowed.
5. Claims 2-5, 7-9, 15 and 18-20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
